2 Enforcement of Judgements in Civil and Commercial
3 Matters Lugano, 16 September 1988

4 Preamble

5 The High Contracting Parties to this Convention,

6 Anxious to strengthen in their territories the legal protection of persons therein established,

7 Considering that it is necessary for this purpose to determine the international jurisdiction of their courts, to facilitate recognition and to introduce an expeditious procedure for securing the enforcement of judgements, authentic instruments and court settlements.

8 Aware of the links between them, which have been sanctioned in the economic field by the free trade agreements concluded between the European Economic Community and the States members of the European Free Trade Association,

9 Taking into account the Brussels Convention of 27 September 1968 on jurisdiction and the enforcement of judgements in civil and commercial matters, as amended to the Accession Conventions under the successive enlargements of the European Communities.

10 Persuaded that the extension of the principles of that Convention to the State parties to this instrument will strengthen legal and economic co-operation in Europe,

Desiring to ensure as uniform an interpretation as possible of this instrument,

Have in this spirit decided to conclude this Convention and Have agreed as follows:

Article 4

47 48 If the defendant is not domiciled in a Contracting State, the jurisdiction of the courts of each Contracting State shall, subject to the provisions of Article 16, be determined by the law of that State.

49 As against such a defendant, any person domiciled in a Contracting State may, whatever his nationality, avail himself in that State of the rules of jurisdiction there in force, and in particular those specified in the second paragraph of Article 3, in the same way as the nationals of that State.

50 Section 2 - Special jurisdiction

51 Article 5

52 A person domiciled in a Contracting State may, in another Contracting State, be sued:

53 1. in matters relating to a contract, in the courts for the place of performance of the obligation in question; in matters relating to individual contracts of employment, this place is that where the employee habitually carries out his work, or if the employee does not habitually carry out his work in any one country, this place shall be the place of business through which he was engaged;

54 2. in matters relating to maintenance, in the courts for the place where the maintenance creditor is domiciled or habitually resident or, if the matter is ancillary to proceedings concerning the status of a person, in the court which, according to its own law, has jurisdiction to entertain those proceedings, unless that jurisdiction is based solely on the nationality of one of the parties;

55 3. in matters relating to tort, delict or quasi-delict, in the courts for the place where the harmful event occurred;

56 4. as regards a civil claim for damages or restitution which is based on an act giving rise to criminal proceedings, in the court seised of those proceedings, to the extent that that court has jurisdiction under its own law to entertain civil proceedings;

57 5. as regards a dispute arising out of the operations of a branch, agency or other establishment, in the courts for the place in which the branch, agency or other establishment is situated;

6. in his capacity as settlor, trustee or beneficiary of a trust cre- 58 ated by the operation of a statute, or by a written instrument, or created orally and evidenced in writing, in the courts of the Contracting State in which the trust is domiciled; 7. as regards a dispute concerning the payment of remuneration claimed in respect of the salvage of a cargo or freight, in the court under the authority of which the cargo or freight in question:

(a) has been arrested to secure such payment, or 59

(b) could have been so arrested, but bail or other security has been 60 given; provided that this provision shall apply only if it is claimed that the defendant has an interest in the cargo or freight or had such an interest at the time of salvage.

Article 6 61

A person domiciled in a Contracting State may also be sued: 62

1. where he is one of a number of defendants, in the courts for the 63 place where any one of them is domiciled;

2. as a third party in an action on a warranty or guarantee or in 64 any other third party proceedings, in the court seised of the original proceedings, unless these were instituted solely with the object of removing him from the jurisdiction of the court which would be competent in his case;

3. on a counterclaim arising from the same contract or facts on 65 which the original claim was based, in the court in which the original claim is pending;

4. in matters relating to a contract, if the action may be combined 66 with an action against the same defendant in matters relating to rights in rem in immovable property, in the court of the Contracting State in which the property is situated.

67 Article 6A

68 Where by virtue of this Convention a court of a Contracting State has jurisdiction in actions relating to liability arising from the use or operation of a ship, that court, or any other court substituted for this purpose by the internal law of that State, shall also have jurisdiction over claims for limitation of such liability.

69 Section 3 - Jurisdiction in matters relating to insurance

70 Article 7

71 In matters relating to insurance, jurisdiction shall be determined by this Section, without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 4 and 5 (5).

72 Article 8

73 An insurer domiciled in a Contracting State may be sued:

- 74 1. in the courts of the State where he is domiciled. or 75 2. in another Contracting State, in the courts for the place where the policy-holder is domiciled, or 76 3. if he is a co-insurer, in the courts of a Contracting State in which proceedings are brought against the leading insurer.

77 An insurer who is not domiciled in a Contracting State but has a branch, agency or other establishment in one of the Contracting States shall, in disputes arising out of the operations of the branch, agency or establishment, be deemed to be domiciled in that State.

Article 9

78

In respect of liability insurance or insurance of immovable property, the insurer may in addition be sued in the courts for the place where the harmful event occurred. The same applies if movable and immovable property are covered by the same insurance policy and both are adversely affected by the same contingency.

79

Article 10

80

In respect of liability insurance, the insurer may also, if the law of the court permits it, be joined in proceedings which the injured party has brought against the insured.

81

The provisions of Articles 7, 8 and 9 shall apply to actions brought by the injured party directly against the insurer, where such direct actions are permitted.

82

If the law governing such direct actions provides that the policyholder or the insured may be joined as a party to the action, the same court shall have jurisdiction over them.

83

Article 11

84

Without prejudice to the provisions of the third paragraph of Article 10, an insurer may bring proceedings only in the courts of the Contracting State in which the defendant is domiciled, irrespective of whether he is the policy-holder, the insured or a beneficiary.

85

The provisions of this Section shall not affect the right to bring a counterclaim in the court in which, in accordance with the Section, the original claim is pending.

86

Article 12

88 The provisions of this Section may be departed from only by an agreement on jurisdiction:

- 89 1. which is entered into after the dispute has arisen, or
- 90 2. which allows the policy-holder, the insured or a beneficiary to bring proceedings in courts other than those indicated in this Section, or
- 91 3. which is concluded between a policy-holder and an insurer, both of whom are at the time of conclusion of the contract domiciled or habitually resident in the same Contracting State, and which has the effect of conferring jurisdiction on the courts of that State even if the harmful event were to occur abroad, provided that such an agreement is not contrary to the law of that State, or
- 92 4. which is concluded with a policy-holder who is not domiciled in a Contracting State, except in so far as the insurance is compulsory or relates to immovable property in a Contracting State, or
- 93 5. which relates to a contract of insurance in so far as it covers one or more of the risks set out in Article 12A.

94 Article 12A

95 The following are the risks referred to in Article 12 (5):

- 96 1. any loss of or damage to
- 97 (a) sea-going ships, installations situated off-shore or on the high seas, or aircraft, arising from perils which relate to their use for commercial purposes,
- 98 (b) goods in transit other than passengers' baggage where the transit consists of or includes carriage by such ships or aircraft;

987

2. any liability, other than for bodily injury to passengers or loss of or damage to their baggage,

(a) arising out of the use or operation of ships, installations or air- 100 craft as referred to in (1) (a) above in so far as the law of the Contracting State in which such aircraft are registered does not prohibit agreements on jurisdiction regarding insurance of such risks,

(b) for loss or damage caused by goods in transit as described in 101
(1) (b) above;

3. any financial loss connected with the use or operation of ships, 102 installations or aircraft as referred to in (1) (a) above, in particular loss of freight or charter-hire;

4. any risk or interest connected with any of those referred to in (1) 103 to (3) above.

Section 4 - Jurisdiction over consumer contracts 104

Article 13 105

In proceedings concerning a contract concluded by a person for 106 a purpose which can be regarded as being outside his trade or profession, hereinafter called the consumer, jurisdiction shall be determined by this Section, without prejudice to the provisions of Articles 4 and 5 (5), if it is:

1. a contract for the sale of goods on instalment credit terms, 107 or

2. a contract for a loan repayable by instalments, or for any other 108 form of credit, made to finance the sale of goods, or

3. any other contract for the supply of goods or a contract for the 109 supply of services, and

(a) in the State of the consumer's domicile the conclusion of the 110 contract was preceded by a specific invitation addressed to him or by advertising, and 111 (b) the consumer took in that State the steps necessary for the conclusion of the contract.

112 Where a consumer enters into a contract with a party who is not domiciled in a Contracting State but has a branch, agency or other establishment in one of the Contracting States, that party shall, in disputes arising out of the operations of the branch, agency or establishment, be deemed to be domiciled in that State.

113 This Section shall not apply to contracts of transport.

114 Article 14

115 A consumer may bring proceedings against the other party to a contract either in the courts of the Contracting State in which that party is domiciled or in the courts of the Contracting State in which he is himself domiciled.

116 Proceedings may be brought against a consumer by the other party to the contract only in the courts of the Contracting State in which the consumer is domiciled.

117 These provisions shall not affect the right to bring a counterclaim in the court in which, in accordance with this Section, the original claim is pending.

118 Article 15

119 The provisions of this Section may be departed from only by an agreement:

- 120 1. which is entered into after the dispute has arisen, or 121 2. which allows the consumer to bring proceedings in courts other than those indicated in this Section, or

3. which is entered into by the consumer and the other party to the contract, both of whom are at the time of conclusion of the contract domiciled or habitually resident in the same Contracting State, and which confers jurisdiction on the courts of that State, provided that such an agreement is not contrary to the law of that State 122

Section 5 - Exclusive jurisdiction 123

Article 16 124

The following courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction, regardless of domicile: 125

1. 126

(a) in proceedings which have as their object rights in rem in immovable property or tenancies of immovable property, the courts of the Contracting State in which the property is situated: 127

(b) however, in proceedings which have as their object tenancies of immovable property concluded for temporary private use for a maximum period of six consecutive months, the courts of the Contracting State in which the defendant is domiciled shall also have jurisdiction, provided that the tenant is a natural person and neither party is domiciled in the Contracting State in which the property is situated; 128

2. in proceedings which have as their object the validity of the constitution, the nullity or the dissolution of companies or other legal persons or associations of natural or legal persons, or the decisions of their organs, the courts of the Contracting State in which the company, legal person or association has its seat; 129

3. in proceedings which have as their object the validity of entries 130

in public registers, the courts of the Contracting State in which the register is kept;

131 4. in proceedings concerned with the registration or validity of patents, trade marks, designs or other similar rights required to be deposited or registered, the courts of the Contracting State in which the deposit or registration has been applied for, has taken place or is under the terms of an international convention deemed to have taken place;

132 5. in proceedings concerned with the enforcement of judgements, the courts of the Contracting State in which the judgement has been or is to be enforced.

133 Section 6 - Prorogation of jurisdiction

134 Article 17

135 1. If the parties, one or more of whom is domiciled in a Contracting State, have agreed that a court or the courts of a Contracting State are to have jurisdiction to settle any disputes which have arisen or which may arise in connection with a particular legal relationship, that court or those courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction. Such an agreement conferring jurisdiction shall be either:

136 (a) in writing or evidenced in writing, or

137 (b) in a form which accords with practices which the parties have established between themselves, or 138 (c) in international trade or commerce, in a form which accords with a usage of which the parties are or ought to have been aware and which in such trade or commerce is widely known to, and regularly observed by, parties to contracts of the type involved in the particular trade or commerce concerned.

139 Where such an agreement is concluded by parties, none of whom is domiciled in a Contracting State, the courts of other Contracting States shall have no jurisdiction over their disputes unless the court or courts chosen have declined jurisdiction.

2. The court or courts of a Contracting State on which a trust instrument has conferred jurisdiction shall have exclusive jurisdiction in any proceedings brought against a settlor, trustee or beneficiary, if relations between these persons or their rights or obligations under the trust are involved. 140

3. Agreements or provisions of a trust instrument conferring jurisdiction shall have no legal force if they are contrary to the provisions of Articles 12 or 15, or if the courts whose jurisdiction they purport to exclude have exclusive jurisdiction by virtue of Article 16. 141

4. If an agreement conferring jurisdiction was concluded for the benefit of only one of the parties, that party shall retain the right to bring proceedings in any other court which has jurisdiction by virtue of this Convention. 142

5. In matters relating to individual contracts of employment an agreement conferring jurisdiction shall have legal force only if it is entered into after the dispute has arisen. 143

Article 18

Apart from jurisdiction derived from other provisions of this Convention, a court of a Contracting State before whom a defendant enters an appearance shall have jurisdiction. This rule shall not apply where appearance was entered solely to contest the jurisdiction, or where another court has exclusive jurisdiction by virtue of Article 16. 144

Section 7 - Examination as to jurisdiction and admissibility 145

Article 19

148 Where a court of a Contracting State is seised of a claim which is principally concerned with a matter over which the courts of another Contracting State have exclusive jurisdiction by virtue of Article 16, it shall declare of its own motion that it has no jurisdiction.

Article 20

150 Where a defendant domiciled in one Contracting State is sued in a court of another Contracting State and does not enter an appearance, the court shall declare of its own motion that it has no jurisdiction unless its jurisdiction is derived from the provisions of this Convention.

151 The court shall stay the proceedings so long as it is not shown that the defendant has been able to receive the document instituting the proceedings or an equivalent document in sufficient time to enable him to arrange for his defence, or that all necessary steps have been taken to this end.

152 The provisions of the foregoing paragraph shall be replaced by those of Article 15 of the Hague Convention of 15 November 1965 on the service abroad of judicial and extrajudicial documents in civil or commercial matters, if the document instituting the proceedings or notice thereof had to be transmitted abroad in accordance with that Convention

153 Section 8 - Lis Pendens - related actions

Article 21

155 Where proceedings involving the same cause of action and between the same parties are brought in the courts of different Contracting States, any court other than the court first seised shall of its 147 own motion stay its proceedings until such time as the jurisdiction of the court first seised is established.

Where the jurisdiction of the court first seised is established, any court other than the court first seised shall decline jurisdiction in favour of that court. 156

Article 22

Where related actions are brought in the courts of different Contracting States, any court other than the court first seised may while the actions are pending at first instance, stay its proceedings. 158

A court other than the court first seised may also, on the application of one of the parties, decline jurisdiction if the law of that court permits the consolidation of related actions and the court first seised has jurisdiction over both actions. 159

For the purposes of this Article, actions are deemed to be related where they are so closely connected that it is expedient to hear and determine them together to avoid the risk of irreconcilable judgments resulting from separate proceedings. 160

Article 23

Where actions come within the exclusive jurisdiction of several courts, any court other than the court first seised shall decline jurisdiction in favour of that court. 162

Section 9 - Provisional, including protective, measures 163

Article 24

Application may be made to the courts of a Contracting State for 165

such provisional, including protective, measures as may be available under the law of that State, even if, under this Convention, the courts of another Contracting State have jurisdiction as to the substance of the matter.

166 Title III - Recognition and Enforcement

167 Article 25

168 For the purposes of this Convention, judgement means any judgement given by a court or tribunal of a Contracting State, whatever the judgement may be called, including a decree, order, decision or writ of execution, as well as the determination of costs or expenses by an officer of the court.

169 Section 1 - Recognition

170 Article 26

171 A judgement given in a Contracting State shall be recognised in the other Contracting States without any special procedure being required.

172 Any interested party who raises the recognition of a judgement as the principal issue in a dispute may, in accordance with the procedures provided for in Sections 2 and 3 of this Title, apply for a decision that the judgement be recognised.

173 If the outcome of proceedings in a court of a Contracting State depends on the determination of an incidental question of recognition that court shall have jurisdiction over that question.

174 Article 27

175 A judgement shall not be recognised:

1. if such recognition is contrary to public policy in the State in which recognition is sought; 176

2. where it was given in default of appearance, if the defendant was not duly served with the document which instituted the proceedings or with an equivalent document in sufficient time to enable him to arrange for his defence; 177

3. if the judgement is irreconcilable with a judgement given in a dispute between the same parties in the State in which recognition is sought; 178

4. if the court of the State of origin, in order to arrive at its judgement, has decided a preliminary question concerning the status or legal capacity of natural persons, rights in property arising out of a matrimonial relationship, wills or succession in a way that conflicts with a rule of the private international law of the State in which the recognition is sought, unless the same result would have been reached by the application of the rules of private international law of that State; 179

5. if the judgement is irreconcilable with an earlier judgement given in a non-contracting State involving the same cause of action and between the same parties, provided that this latter judgement fulfils the conditions necessary for its recognition in the State addressed. 180

Moreover, a judgement shall not be recognised if it conflicts with the provisions of Sections 3. 4 or 5 of Title II or in a case provided for in Article 59. 182

A judgement may furthermore be refused recognition in any case provided for in Article 54B (3) or 57 (4). 183

In its examination of the grounds of jurisdiction referred to in the 184 foregoing paragraphs, the court or authority applied to shall be bound by the findings of fact on which the court of the State of origin based its jurisdiction.

185 Subject to the provisions of the first and second paragraphs, the jurisdiction of the court of the State of origin may not be reviewed; the test of public policy referred to in Article 27 (1) may not be applied to the rules relating to jurisdiction.

186 Article 29

187 Under no circumstances may a foreign judgement be reviewed as to its substance.

188 Article 30

189 A court of a Contracting State in which recognition is sought of a judgement given in another Contracting State may stay the proceedings if an ordinary appeal against the judgement has been lodged.

190 A court of a Contracting State in which recognition is sought of a judgement given in Ireland or the United Kingdom may stay the proceedings if enforcement is suspended in the State of origin by reason of an appeal.

191 Section 2 - Enforcement

192 Article 31

193 A judgement given in a Contracting State and enforceable in that State shall be enforced in another Contracting State when, on the application of any interested party, it has been declared enforceable there.

However, in the United Kingdom, such a judgement shall be enforced in England and Wales, in Scotland, or in Northern Ireland when, on the application of any interested party, it has been registered for enforcement in that part of the United Kingdom. 194

Article 32 195

1. The application shall be submitted: 196

Article 47 330

A party applying for enforcement shall also produce: 331

1. documents which establish that, according to the law of the State of origin, the judgement is enforceable and has been served; 332
2. where appropriate, a document showing that the applicant is in receipt of legal aid in the State of origin. 333

Article 48 334

If the documents specified in Article 46 (2) and Article 47 (2) are not produced, the court may specify a time for their production, accept equivalent documents or, if it considers that it has sufficient information before it, dispense with their production. 335

If the court so requires, a translation of the document shall be produced; the translation shall be certified by a person qualified to do so in one of the Contracting States. 336

Article 49 337

Article 53 350

For the purposes of this Convention, the seat of a company or other legal person or association of natural or legal persons shall be treated as its domicile. However, in order to determine that seat, the court shall apply its rules of private international law. 351

In order to determine whether a trust is domiciled in the Contracting State whose courts are seised of the matter, the court shall apply its rules of private international law. 352

Title VI - Transnational Provisions 353

Article 54 354

The provisions of this Convention shall apply only to legal proceedings instituted and to documents formally drawn up or registered as authentic instruments after its entry into force in the State of origin and, where recognition or enforcement of a judgement or authentic instrument is sought, in the State addressed. 355

However, judgements given after the date of entry into force of this Convention between the State of origin and the State addressed in proceedings instituted before that date shall be recognised and enforced in accordance with the provisions of Title III if jurisdiction was founded upon rules which accorded with those provided for either in Title II of this Convention or in a convention concluded 356 between the State of origin and the State addressed which was in force when the proceedings were instituted.

357 If the parties to a dispute concerning a contract had agreed in writing before the entry into force of this Convention that the contract was to be governed by the law of Ireland or of a part of the United Kingdom, the courts of Ireland or of that part of the United Kingdom shall retain the right to exercise jurisdiction in the dispute.

358 Article 54A

359 For a period of three years from the entry into force of this Convention for Denmark, Greece, Ireland, Iceland, Norway, Finland and Sweden, respectively, jurisdiction in maritime matters shall be determined in these States not only in accordance with the provisions of Title II, but also in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs 1 to 7 following. However, upon the entry into force of the International Convention relating to the arrest of sea-going ships, signed at Brussels on 10 May 1952, for one of these States, these provisions shall cease to have effect for that State.

360 1. A person who is domiciled in a Contracting State may be sued in the courts of one of the States mentioned above in respect of a maritime claim if the ship to which the claim relates or any other ship owned by him has been arrested by judicial process within the territory of the latter State to secure the claim, or could have been so arrested there but bail or other security has been given, and either:

- 361 (a) the claimant is domiciled in the latter State, or
- 362 (b) the claim arose in the latter State, or
- 363 (c) the claim concerns the voyage during which the arrest was made or could have been made, or
- 364 (d) the claim arises out of a collision or out of damage caused by a ship to another ship or to goods or persons on board either ship, either by the execution or non-execution of a manoeuvre or by the non-observance of regulations, or

- (e) the claim is for salvage, or 365
- (f) the claim is in respect of a mortgage or hypothecation of the ship arrested. 366

2. A claimant may arrest either the particular ship to which the maritime claim relates, or any other ship which is owned by the person who was, at the time when the maritime claim arose, the owner of the particular ship. However, only the particular ship to which the maritime claim relates may be arrested in respect of the maritime claims set out in (5) (o), (p) or (q) of this Article. 367

3. Ships shall be deemed to be in the same ownership when all the shares therein are owned by the same person or persons. 368

4. When in the case of a charter by demise of a ship the charterer alone is liable in respect of a maritime claim relating to that ship, the claimant may arrest that ship or any other ship owned by the charterer, but no other ship owned by the owner may be arrested in respect of such claim. The same shall apply to any case in which a person other than the owner of a ship is liable in respect of a maritime claim relating to that ship. 369

5. The expression maritime claim means a claim arising out of one or more of the following: 370

- (a) damage caused by any ship either in collision or otherwise; 371
- (b) loss of life or personal injury caused by any ship or occurring in connection with the operation on any ship; 372
- (c) salvage; 373
- (d) agreement relating to the use or hire of any ship whether by 374

charterparty or other wise;

375 (e) agreement relating to the carriage of goods in any ship whether by charterparty or otherwise;

376 (f) loss of or damage to goods including baggage carried in any ship;

377 (g) general average;

378 (h) bottomry;

379 (i) towage;

380 (j) pilotage;

381 (k) goods or materials wherever supplied to a ship for her operation or maintenance;

382 (l) construction, repair or equipment of any ship or dock charges and dues;

383 (m) wages of masters, officers or crew;

384 (n) master's disbursements, including disbursements made by shippers, charterers or agents on behalf of a ship or her owner;

385 (o) dispute as to the title to or ownership of any ship;

386 (p) disputes between co-owners of any ship as to the ownership, possession, employment or earnings of that ship;

387 (q) the mortgage or hypothecation of any ship.

388 6. In Denmark, the expression "arrest" shall be deemed as regards the maritime claims referred to in (5) (o) and (p) of this Article, to include a "forbud", where that is the only procedure allowed in respect of such a claim under Articles 646 to 653 of the law on civil procedure (lov om rettens pleje).

389 7. In Iceland, the expression "arrest" shall be deemed, as regards the maritime claims referred in (5) (o) and (p) of this Article, to include a logbann, where that is the only procedure allowed in respect of such a claim under Chapter III of the law on arrest and injunction (log um kyrrsetningu og logbann).

Title VII - Relationship to the Brussels Convention and to 390 Other Conventions

Article 54B 391

1. This Convention shall not prejudice the application by the Mem- 392 ber States of the European Communities of the Convention on Jurisdiction and the Enforcement of Judgements in Civil and Commercial Matters, signed at Brussels on 27 September 1968 and of the Protocol on interpretation of that Convention by the Court of Justice, signed at Luxembourg on 3 June 1971, as amended by the Conventions of Accession to the said Convention and the said Protocol by the States acceding to the European Communities, all of these Conventions and the Protocol being hereinafter referred to as the "Brussels Convention".

2. However, this Convention shall in any event be applied: 393

(a) in matters of jurisdiction, where the defendant is domiciled in 394 the territory of a Contracting State which is not a member of the European Communities, or where Articles 16 or 17 of this Convention confer a jurisdiction on the courts of such a Contracting State;

(b) in relation to a lis pendens or to related actions as provided for in 395 Articles 21 and 22, when proceedings are instituted in a Contracting State which is not a member of the European Communities and in a Contracting State which is a member of the European Communities;

(c) in matters of recognition and enforcement, where either the 396

State of origin or the State addressed is not a member of the European Communities.

397 3. In addition to the grounds provided for in Title III recognition or enforcement may be refused if the ground of jurisdiction on which the judgement has been based differs from that resulting from this Convention and recognition or enforcement is sought against a party who is domiciled in a Contracting State which is not a member of the European Communities, unless the judgement may otherwise be recognised or enforced under any rule of law in the State addressed.

Article 56 424

The Treaty and the conventions referred to in Article 55 shall continue to have effect in relation to matters to which this Convention does not apply. 425

They shall continue to have effect in respect of judgements given and documents formally drawn up or registered as authentic instruments before the entry into force of this Convention. 426

Article 57 427

1. This Convention shall not effect any conventions to which the Contracting States are or will be parties and which in relation to particular matters, govern jurisdiction or the recognition or enforcement of judgements. 428

2. This Convention shall not prevent a court of a Contracting State which is party to a convention referred to in the first paragraph from assuming jurisdiction in accordance with that convention, even where the defendant is domiciled in a Contracting State which is not a party to that convention. The court hearing the action shall, in any event, apply Article 20 of this Convention. 429

3. Judgements given in a Contracting State by a court in the ex- 430

ercise of jurisdiction provided for in a convention referred to in the first paragraph shall be recognised and enforced in the other Contracting States in accordance with Title III of this Convention.

431 4. In addition to the grounds provided for in Title III, recognition or enforcement may be refused if the State addressed is not a contracting party to a convention referred to in the first paragraph and the person against whom recognition or enforcement is sought is domiciled in that State, unless the judgements may otherwise be recognised or enforced under any rule of law in the State addressed.

432 5. Where a convention referred to in the first paragraph to which both the State of origin and the State addressed are parties lays down conditions for the recognition and enforcement of judgements, those conditions shall apply. In any event, the provisions of this Convention which concern the procedure for recognition and enforcement of judgements may be applied.

433 Article 58

434 (None)

435 Article 59

436 This Convention shall not prevent a Contracting State from assuming, in a convention on the recognition and enforcement of judgements, an obligation towards a third State not to recognise judgements given in other Contracting States against defendants domiciled or habitually resident in the third State where, in cases provided for in Article 4, the judgement could only be founded on a ground of jurisdiction specified in the second paragraph of Article 3.

437 However, a Contracting State may not assume an obligation towards a third State not to recognise a judgement given in another Contracting State by a court basing its jurisdiction on the presence within that State of property belonging to the defendant, or the seizure by the plaintiff of property situated there:

1. if the action is brought to assert or declare proprietary or possessory rights in that property, seeks to obtain authority to dispose of it, or arises from another issue relating to such property, or 438
2. if the property constitutes the security for a debt which is the subject-matter of the action. 439
