

SURVIVAL GUIDE SESSIONS

Invitation to a Voluntary Survival guide session for exchange students in January:

CELL (Center on experiential legal learning) invites you to a session where you can learn not only to survive but also to thrive as an exchange student at the Faculty of Law. If you are present in Oslo in the semester start week, we recommend that you sign up on 14 January.

In this session you will learn about:

- Practical tips / a survival guide led by 2 students at the faculty.
- How to effectively work in student study groups
- How to improve your writing skills
- The correct use of sources and citations in writing law (Library resources)

At the end of the session there will be a Q & A, where the students from the faculty will answer questions about life as a student in Oslo.

There are 2 similar sessions available, and you can sign up for one using the links below.

Registration is done on a "first come, first served basis", however if you later decide not to attend, please withdraw your registration to allow someone else the opportunity to participate.
